

Federico Montero

Front End Developer

Personal Profile

After an initial career in music, in 2021 I decided to shift my professional path toward technology. I trained as a full-stack developer in a coding bootcamp, and since then I've focused on front-end development with React.

Most recently, I worked as a Front-End Developer using React and TypeScript, which strengthened my experience building modern, reusable, and maintainable interfaces. I'm interested in continuing to grow within the React ecosystem, exploring tools like React Native, Next.js, React Query, and other complementary technologies. I also have one year of experience as a QA at Cencosud S.A., where I developed a strong attention to detail, an understanding of the full development lifecycle, and teamwork skills within agile methodologies.

I'm looking to continue growing as a Front-End Developer, contributing value both technically and personally, in projects where I can learn and evolve.

Outside of work, I enjoy making music, playing soccer, and spending time with my family.
